

LOCAL NEWS.

MONDAY EVENING, AUGUST 5.

THE ALIANTHUS TREE.—An exchange, commenting on the above tree, says: "It grows so rapidly that it may be cut down for fuel every fourth year. As fuel, the wood is superior to that of most trees; it burns with a clear, bright flame, and throws out a great deal of heat. The wood is hard, of fine grain, and well fitted for cabinet making." All this may be true, but it does not convert the aliantus into a "tree of paradise," at least, so far as its odoriferous qualities are concerned. It is but a poor shade tree, and most people who do not possess them, would be willing to see the experiment of their burning and heat-giving qualities tested. Where there are so many magnificent rapidly growing shade trees, such as the horse-chestnut and linden, to be easily procured, it is surprising that any one should desire to propagate such nuisance as the aliantus. It is said that the aliantus was first introduced into this country by an enterprising citizen, who hoped to find in its foliage, a substitute for the sumac leaf. He planted largely, but found to his disappointment that his speculation was a failure, the leaves containing nothing of the tanning property. But like many other evils, the tree was more easily introduced than extirpated, and he found it overrunning all his lands, spreading in every direction, and springing up without invitation or planting. So, driven to a desperate resource he gave out to his neighbors that he possessed the veritable "tree of heaven," and the plant "divinely touched," whereupon the public speedily cleared the farm of the "new shade tree," the shrewd owner magnanimously giving away the plants—whether they thanked him for his trees, tradition saith not; but they might consistently have complimented him on his shrewdness. However the aliantus may be praised in verse, it is very generally voted a nuisance here, and in some cities its growth is prohibited by law.

PARTISAN LIFE WITH MOSBY.—This most interesting work, written by Maj. John Scott, of Fauquier county, and prepared with the cooperation of Col. Mosby, has been published, and will be delivered to subscribers, desiring the work, by Boyd M. Smith, of this city—a former member of the famous battalion—and the agent, appointed by the publisher, for this and Fairfax counties. The book is a very handsome volume, finely illustrated, and is filled with anecdotes, incidents, &c. The author served under Mosby during his campaigns, and is a native of that portion of Virginia which was the scene of the principal operations of the battalion. The ladies of the region where Mosby operated, and who were often connected with "Mosby's men," sometimes as actors, and sometimes as spectators, appear in this volume under their own names, and the important part they acted in these strange scenes is fully recorded. The "personnel" of the book will in no wise detract from its interest in this section of the State, where the principal actors are so generally known, and the scenes and incidents so vividly narrated will lead an additional attraction to the work.

COLORADO ORATORS.—R. D. Beckley, colored, of this city, is thus spoken of by the Richmond Whig: "One of the most striking of the many striking features of these times, is the skill in public speaking that distinguishes many of the colored men. Some of them speak not only with clearness and force, but with strict grammatical correctness. How and where they acquired it, is the mystery. Others exhibit great fluency, much native vigor of mind, and considerable adroitness in debate, while they show an entire want of knowledge of the rules of grammar. Among those who have attracted marked attention by reason of their oratorical gifts, we may mention R. D. Beckley, of Alexandria."

CAVEAT.—On Saturday last, in the Orphan's Court in Washington, Judge Moore, attorney for J. DeVaughn, of this city, filed a formal caveat to the probate of the will of the late Samuel DeVaughn. The caveat alleges that the will presented to the Court was revoked by the testator; that it was obtained by improper and undue influence, and that it was not properly executed. It appearing that one of the attesting witnesses to the will is upon the jury in the Sarraff trial, by consent of counsel for the caveators and of Mr. Thompson for the devisees, the case was postponed until Saturday next.

SECOND SESSION OF THE BOARD OF REGISTRATION.—The second session of the Board of Registration, for this city and county, of which Col. S. P. WARRENTON.—A letter from Warrenton, Va., says: "The colored people here have regular dancing schools, base-ball clubs, picnics, fairs, &c.; in fine they initiate the whites in everything, save constancy at work. They had a tournament here a few days ago. It is strange to hear from you of the heat in Alexandria. There have been a few warm days here, but most of the time I have been too cool to be comfortable. The wind blows all the time. Warrenton is crowded to overflowing with visitors."

THIRD WARD RADICALS.—A large meeting of the Republican Club of the Third Ward was held last night in Sickles' Barracks, A. V. Harlow, the President, in the Chair, and T. J. Redlin, Secretary. A colored man named Rudolph Thompson, a delegate to the Richmond Radical Convention, delivered an address, recounting the scenes and incidents that occurred during the sessions of that body. A committee, consisting of R. C. Armstrong, white, and H. H. Arnold and William Burke, colored, was appointed to wait on Gen. Wells, white, and James Claggett and George Seton, colored, and invite them to address the club at its next regular meeting. A motion was carried that Mr. I. C. O'Neal be invited to address the club on the evening of Thursday, the 15th inst. It was resolved that hereafter, instead of on Saturdays, as heretofore, the regular meetings of the club be held on Thursday nights. It was announced that Col. Yesterday evening it was carried to Washington.
